BOOKS OUT ABOUT $2,000

State Accountant Files Report on Affairs of J. E. Correll.

State Accountant W. F. Smith yesterday reported to Auditor of Public Accounts C. Lee Moore the result of an examination made of the books of J. E. Correll, commissioner of revenue for Winchester, who died recently, leaving an estate worth $2,000.

Mr. Smith said he had found that license fees that should have been paid to the treasurer of the county had been paid to the revenue commissioner. The latter's books do not show what disposition was made of these moneys. The total amount unaccounted for by the State accountant in his examination of the books is about $2,000. Should an actual shortage be disclosed, suit will be instituted to recover the whole amount.

Commissioner Correll was for many years one of the most prominent figures in the social, business, and political life of Winchester. When the late Judge Handley died, leaving an estate worth $2,000,000 to the city of Winchester, Mr. Correll was appointed treasurer of the fund. Since the death of Winchester, where services are conducted in a large tent. He expects to have 5,000 converts before the meetings close on August 15. The services are under the auspices of the Richmond Colored Evangelistic Campaign Committee. Next Sunday a photograph will be taken of all colored at the services in Washington Park.

Evangelist Drew has been in the city for two months and on July 4 conducted a forty-day encampment in Washington Park, where services are conducted in a large tent. He expects to have 5,000 converts before the meetings close on August 15. The services are under the auspices of the Richmond Colored Evangelistic Campaign Committee. Next Sunday a photograph will be taken of all colored at the services in Washington Park.

GEORGIA SENATOR WANTS GOVERNOR STUART'S VIEWS

Asks Expression on Relative Advantages of Electric Chair and Gallows as Mode of Punishment.

Senator J. O. Adams, of Georgia, has written to Governor Stuart—

Does the Governor of Virginia prefer shocking condemned criminals to death with electric current to hanging them at the rope's end?

Does Governor Stuart think the gallows should be relegated to the junk pile, and the practice of strangling a murderer consigned to the oblivion that encompasses the stocks, the thumbscrews, the galleys and the guillotine?

As a humane proposition, would the Governor of Virginia like to see the State of Georgia and every other State that still maintains the gallows as the legal instrument of execution abolish it and adopt instead the electric chair?

Such are the queries the Georgia Senator propounds. Senator Adams explains that he is the author of a bill recently offered in the Georgia Senate to substitute the electric chair for the gallows. The bill is now before the Penitentiary Committee of the State Senate, and its passage is a matter of time. He is soliciting opinions and suggestions in advocacy of the measure from prominent men throughout the State, which he will use in his arguments and plea for the electric chair when the bill is reported to the Senate.

JUDGMENT AGAINST CITY

K. L. Black & Co. Awarded $830.44 on Ginter Park Paving Contract.

Judgment for $830.44 was awarded in the Law and Equity Court, yesterday, in favor of K. L. Black & Co. against the city of Richmond. The plaintiffs sued on a paving contract given them by Ginter Park before that suburb was annexed by the city. Upon annexation the city assumed all outstanding obligations incurred by the annexed towns and became liable for the balance due K. L. Black & Co. on the Ginter Park paving contract.

The city claimed that part of the paving for which payment was asked was not up to specifications. The Law and Equity Court jury was taken to the scene Saturday afternoon and made an inspection of the paving itself. It returned a verdict against the city, awarding the plaintiffs judgment in the amount named.

Petross—Ettinger.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] LEXINGTON, Va., June 12.—A marriage license, issued June 12, was turned today at the Circuit Clerk's office here, announcing the marriage on that date in Buena Vista, Va., by Rev. William Stevens, of Lafayette, La., and Miss Gertrude Virginia Ettinger, daughter of Joseph Ettinger, of Lexington.

Mr. Petross graduated from the Virginia Military Institute on June 24, and left Lexington the day of his marriage. Mrs. Petross is with her parents here.

TURNPIKE MAKES PROFIT

Harry F. Byrd, of Winchester, Files Report With Governor.

Harry F. Byrd, of Winchester, president of the Valley Turnpike Company, in which the State is a stockholder, has submitted his report for the month of May to Governor Stuart.

The report, which was received yesterday, shows for the month a total of $2,535.88 disbursed against receipts amounting to $4,375.51. Notwithstanding the excellent showing made, President Byrd offers an excuse for not doing still better. He writes:

"For the first time in several years our receipts show a decrease as compared with the receipts for the same month in the preceding year. In this case it can be attributed to the application of asphalt, which was made to the entire road during May. This reduced greatly the automobile traffic. The statement for June will show a large increase over June, 1914."

Preserves, beautifies and purifies the skin and complexion. The favorite of over 66 years.

STATE OFFICIALS HEAR OF BIG LIQUOR SALES

Extensive Operations of Bootleggers Reported to Secretary of Commonwealth.

COME FROM WEST VIRGINIA

Use Motor Cars, Said to Carry No Virginia License Tag and Fly Their Trade Openly, According to Reports.

Secretary of the Commonwealth B. O. James and his office staff are evincing a lively interest in the reported extensive operations of bootleggers in Bath County. Automobiles carrying contraband liquor from West Virginia into the neighborhoods of the half dozen summer resorts in Bath, near the West Virginia line, will probably be flagged and their drivers arrested in the next few days.

Pursuing bootleggers and rounding up blind tiger operators are police duties not within the province of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. But Colonel James is very much interested in another phase of the conditions prevailing in the mountains of Bath.

Complaints from law-abiding citizens, who report that illicit whiskey selling is so common that it no longer excites comment and that interference with the operations of the bootleggers is practically impossible, are the basis of motor cars in which the bootleggers operate without paying the tax on the liquor, and the use of the public highways of Virginia.

PORTABLE STOREHOUSES COME IN FROM WEST VIRGINIA

The portable whiskey storehouses are moving constantly between Virginia and West Virginia. The bootleggers, who own and operate the cars, carry showing that they have taken out licenses in that State. But they apparently believe that it is just as easy to get the automobile license law in Virginia as it is to change local option and liquor license laws. Hence the bootleggers continue to roam as free as wild geese through the mountains.

The buyers of the contraband liquor, it is stated, are guests of the half-dozen hotels and boarding houses in the western part of the county. Northerners and Westerners, accustomed to their "mornin's mornin'", are during the day, form the majority of the patrons of the bootleggers, according to the information from Bath, but there are also a great many Virginians and West Virginians among the health-seekers at the different resorts.

The liquor laws, it is said, have been openly violated in the neighborhood of the larger hotels for many months. Scores of guests engaged in the illegal liquor traffic were from hands in laborers living near the border line before they discovered the enormous profits yielded by the bootlegging business.

Some of them are now in comfortable circumstances. The one such valued at, from $500 to $3,000. These cars may be seen daily bowling through the mountain ranges, loaded to the "gunnels" with dask and jugs. The bootleggers take fresh orders from their customers while delivering wet goods previously ordered. Any quantity of liquor, from a half pint to a barrel, is delivered to order at any safe place in the county. Warm Springs, the county seat, is said to be surrounded by blind tigers.

The supply stations of the bootleggers are several railroad stations in West Virginia, near the border line. Cincinnati wholesale liquor dealers are said to be shipping whiskey, beer and other wet goods in enormous quantities to the bootleggers, who retail it in Bath County. Instructions have been issued from Bath, requesting them to overhaul automobiles that are operating in the county without carrying a Virginia license tag, have been issued from the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. The initiative thus taken by that office may result in the arrest and prosecution of some of the bootleggers and the breaking up of the illegal whiskey traffic in Bath.

Metcalfe Leaves Hospital.

Chauffeur W. H. Metcalfe, of the First District, who was injured when the police car he was driving was struck by an automobile and then ran into a telegraph pole at the corner of Seventh and Clay Streets last week, was able yesterday to leave the hospital. Policeman G. L. Hooker, who suffered a broken arm, is still in the hospital.

TO-DAY'S BEAUTY SUGGESTIONS

Face powder simply covers up an unattractive complexion and leaves no lasting benefits. Those who have tried a simple spumax face lotion find it much better, as it removes skin discolorations, such as freckles and tan, and makes the skin smooth, white and velvety. This lotion is made by dissolving four ounces of spumax in one-half pint hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerin. This complexion beautifier does not rub off or show like powder, and gives a more refined appearance. It removes both shininess and sallowness, rapidly giving the skin a permanent healthy, youthful appearance.

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be had at trifling expense by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and supple, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a softness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.

GEORGIA PEACH CROP HAULED BY TRAINLOADS

Southern Railway Handled Five Sections of Peach Trains Saturday and Seven on Sunday.

INCREASE IN COAL LOADED

New Engineer of Maintenance of Way for Northern District of Southern Railway Opens His Office in Richmond.

Movement of the Georgia peach crop to Northern markets is forming an important part of the Southern Railway traffic this month. According to estimates received at the office in Richmond of General Superintendent R. E. Simpson yesterday, the Southern expects to haul at least 5,000 carloads of peaches during the season.

On Saturday there were five sections of peach trains, and on Sunday there were seven. So far the total shipments have reached 285 carloads.

For the twelve months ending June 30, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway loaded 22,661,550 tons of coal, an increase of 2,215,550 over the total for the preceding year.

The loss from the fire which destroyed the paint and oil house of the Chesapeake and Ohio in Richmond last Friday night is estimated at $5,000.

The settling of the ground over the Southern Railway tunnel under Rivermont Avenue, in Lynchburg, is becoming noticeable by passengers on street cars, as they pass over the depression in the car tracks. The condition has been known to exist for several months, but it is not regarded as dangerous by the city engineer of Lynchburg. The trouble is due to the burning of temporary timbers when the tunnel was under construction.

G. E. Buckley, the newly appointed engineer of maintenance of way for the northern district of the Southern Railway, arrived in the city yesterday to assume his new duties. Mr. Buckley has recently been located at St. Louis as engineer of maintenance on the St. Louis-Louisville line of the Southern. He will make his headquarters in Richmond, and will have charge of the maintenance department of the Washington, Richmond, Danville, Norfolk and Winston-Salem divisions. He is only thirty-five years old, but is regarded as one of the most competent engineers with the Southern.

Reports received at headquarters of the Chesapeake and Ohio place the damage done to the company's property in Covington, Ky., Cincinnati and elsewhere in that section by the storm
